Sedgwick County Goodpaster Homicide Case Study

In November 2016, a dispute over $185.00 in missing drug money led five people to torture and sexually assault a woman. The woman blamed Scottie Goodpaster for the missing money and the attackers turned their attention on him torturing and killing the 33-year-old man at a home in Valley Center. His mutilated body was dumped in rural Harvey County.

During the presentation, you will hear from: the detectives and crime scene investigators who processed and investigated the case.

Franklin County Quadruple Homicide Case Study

The murders of four people shocked the small community of Ottawa, KS, in early May 2013. On May 1, 2013, Kaylie Smith-Bailey and her daughter, Lana-Leigh (18 months old), went missing from Olathe, KS. On May 6, 2013, deputies from the Franklin County Sheriff's office responded to a residence where they located the body of Steven White inside of an outbuilding on the property. Once investigators were inside the residence, the bodies of Andrew Stout and Kailey Smith-Bailey were found. A large, extensive search began for the missing 18-month-old, which ended with the discovery of her body in a creek (inside a suitcase) on May 11, 2013.

During the presentation, you will hear from: the investigator that was assigned to the case, the crime scene investigators that processed the multiple crime scenes involved in the case, the bloodstain pattern analyst and prosecutor.
